SCHOOL REPORT.

To The Citizens of Goffstown :

The Superintending School Committee submit the following Report :

It gives us pleasure to state that the condition of the Schools in town compares favorably with past years, and affords much encouragement to the friends of General Education.

We should be remiss in our duty if we did not remind you that in progress there is no stopping place short of perfection, and in your schools that ideal is yet a long way ahead. It is to be hoped that all are interested in the improvement of the schools in which your children are educated for the business of future life. As the results of our observation and experience, we offer a few suggestions upon points deserving more extended remarks.

SCHOOL MONEY.

The alarming decrease of school money, and the advance of wages necessary to secure first class teachers, demand your serious attention. Unless something be done, several districts will soon be deprived of the benefit of a single term of school of a month's length. We know that you are already burdened with taxation, but would it not be better to be a year longer in paying the town debt, than have a whole generation of children grow up uneducated ?

We recommend an increased appropriation of five hundred dollars.

PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEES.

It is to be feared that Prudential Committees are not always wisely chosen. They should not be selected "by turn," or according to their "political faith," or their "devotion to a faction." Every parent should consider how important it is that the appropriation for the District be judiciously expended. Then do not elect men just to gratify personal feelings, who will select a teacher according to his "politics," or because he is a relative, or the object of a vindictive neighbor's dislike. A good school can seldom be had under such circumstances. Your money comes too hard to be thrown away, and the school-days of your children are too few to be wasted.

SELECTION OF TEACHERS.

It is often difficult to secure a suitable person to teach your school. So long as teaching is not made a profession, and the salaries paid remain far below what both males and females receive in other employments of less responsibility, it will be difficult to obtain good teachers. Our only wonder is, when so few engage in teaching for any other purpose than a temporary resort to secure a little money, there are not more and greater failures than do occur. It is not the course of wisdom to employ a teacher against whom there exists, on the part of any of the parents, a prejudice, even if such prejudice has no good foundation; it is seldom that it can be overcome. Experienced teachers should be preferred to beginners, and regard should be had to their special fitness, not for other schools, but for your school. Many who succeed admirably in some schools, fail to do well in others. There is a law of adaptation in all things, which cannot be violated with impunity.

PARENTAL CO-OPERATION.

Evils exist in many schools which neither the committee nor teachers can remedy without the hearty co-operation of parents. Let all cordially unite with the teacher and sustain him in each effort; and to ensure success there must be entire submission to his authority. The teacher is on the ground, and if he understands his business, and is devoted to the work, he knows the wants of his pupils in the school-room, better than they, or their parents at home.

WHISPERING.

Whispering is an "unmitigated nuisance," and the prolific parent of disorders innumerable. Every teacher should abso- lutely forbid it; make it a punishable offense, and the pupil who can neither be persuaded nor compelled to refrain from whispering, should be expelled from school.

TEXT BOOKS.

The labors of nearly every teacher in town are rendered more arduous, and the advancement of the pupils retarded, by the use of a variety of text books upon the same topics. This is a great evil never tolerated in schools where there are any pretensions to system. Many schools have two or three different series of Arithmetics, as many of Grammar and Geography, and in some the evil also extends to the Readers and Spelling Books. Under such circumstances no class can receive justice at the hands of the teacher.

Parents, the remedy for this is at your command:—use it and you will deserve the thanks of a generation. Employ a committee in whom you have sufficient confidence to entrust the delicate task of restoring order out of this chaos, and then secure yourselves from imposition, and perpetuate to coming years the benefits of judicious classification, by adopting an act legalized by a recent Legislative Enactment preventing the introduction of any new Text Book into your school for a series of years.

There is yet another evil in some of your schools. The introduction of the National Arithmetic, and other treatises of the advanced branches of English Education. Unless the school be very small, giving instruction in such branches is an act of injustice to those for whom the Common School is specially designed.

REGISTERS.

The whole number of registers is twenty-six. Of these, four do not report the wages of the teachers, six do not give the average attendance, and eight are without general remarks. A few are so defaced that they give evidence of a carelessness unfavorable to any teacher. This embarrassing state of things is not the result of ignorance, for those having the most imperfections are from experienced teachers; each register also contains full instructions and the requirements of the statute. Considering the labor now necessary to prepare the registers for the State Report, and the incorrectness which cannot be avoided, we are led to denounce such remissness in duty, feeling that it is unjust.

ALVIN HADLEY, } Superintending School
WM. H. EATON, } Com. of Goffstown.

We present the following condensed report of the several schools. Our knowledge of the every day prosperity of the schools is based, mostly, upon appearances. We have tried to be judicious in praise and careful in censure. That we have made no mistakes is too much to expect. If any school or teacher feels aggrieved, it is not the result of intentional injustice.

The summer schools in Districts No. 3, 4, 5, 7, 8, 9, 11, and 15, were reported by Wm. H. Eaton.

DISTRICT NO. 1. VILLAGE, SOUTH SIDE.

Summer Term taught by Martha R. Kidder. Miss K. performs the duties of a teacher with a diligence and perseverance that awaken an interest among her pupils which leads to close application to study. The order was good for so large a school, and the closing exercises were of a high order. The teacher says: "A few classes made more progress than any I ever had before." An appropriate testimonial of respect, presented by the scholars, bore witness that the labors of a faithful and devoted teacher were appreciated.

Winter Term taught by Henry P. Dearborn, of Weare. Visiting this school a few days before its close, we found the number of scholars greatly reduced. If children were removed or allowed to absent themselves from any dissatisfaction, a quiet submission attended the act, as unusual as it is praiseworthy. Judging from report and observation, Mr. D. labored with untiring energy, and if his course is onward and upward, he will make a first class teacher. The small scholars were not as quiet as is desirable, but the older pupils conducted properly, and from the general appearance of the school, we concluded that the advantages of a long term were improved. Register imperfect; no remarks.

DISTRICT NO. 2. MOUNTAIN.

Winter Term taught by Addie E. Adams, of New Boston. Dropping into this school a day previous to its close, we were not favorably impressed with our reception from some of the scholars. Being visited by surprise, was thought sufficient perhaps, to make the occasion one of joy and laughter. How much better it is to restrain such feelings, and manifest an interest in appearing well! All are not included in this complaint, for a part conducted with the utmost propriety. This school is backward; the teacher was interested in the work, but possibly, was unequal to the task. Register imperfect; no remarks.

DISTRICT NO. 3. SHIRLEY HILL.

Summer Term taught by Jennie E. Hart. This was Miss Hart's first attempt at teaching, and her success may well encourage her to future efforts. We saw many indications of a good school. Register imperfect; no remarks.

Winter Term taught by Helen M. Baker of Dunbarton. Not receiving seasonable notice, we did not visit this school until it had been in session two or three weeks. The order was good, the teacher faithful in her labors, and good improvements was made. Some attention was given to recitations and declamations. Register imperfect; no remarks.

DISTRICT NO. 4. KENNEDY'S

Summer and Winter Terms taught by Asenath M. Clifford, of Dunbarton. This school enjoyed the advantage of securing the same teacher for both terms. The children manifested a peculiar fondness for their teacher, and her services were evidently acceptable to the district. Greater thoroughness would have been an improvement. The school-house is an ancient structure in a good state of preservation, but it needs remodelling. It could be made a pleasant and convenient house at a small expense. Register for first term imperfect; average attendance not given.

DISTRICT NO. 5. MAST ROAD.

Summer Term taught by Lucinda L. Chase, of Manchester. Miss Chase entered this school without experience, and but little acquainted with the management of schools outside the city. She labored under the additional disadvantage of following a teacher of large experience; under such circumstances it is not strange that she failed to give universal satisfaction. We have reason to believe that she tried hard to benefit her pupils. The improvement between the first and final visits, in several classes, was creditable.

Winter Term taught by Martha R. Kidder. This school is surpassed by none in town in the general deportment, habits of study, and attainments of the pupils. Recitations, declamations, compositions, and singing interspersed with the regular exercises of the school-room, gave indications of talent, which, if rightly fostered, will ere long exert a powerful influence for good. The compositions, if written without assistance, were truly remarkable productions, which would be very creditable to much older pupils. The drawings upon the blackboard by Annie R. Stevens, were so skillfully executed, we would encourage the young artist by a tribute of praise.

DISTRICT NO. 6. CETNER, SOUTH SIDE.

Winter Term taught by Mary E. Brown. While most of the scholars conducted with propriety and were devoted to their studies; others were not apparently as much engaged. The teacher was untiring in her efforts, uniting with the regular exercises, demonstrations which were instructive and easily comprehended. This district should be united with No. 9, and a graded school established. Register imperfect; average not given.

DISTRICT NO. 7. EAST DISTRICT.

Summer Term taught by Lottie T. Batchelder, of Manchester. This teacher endeavored to instruct a company of interesting children in a dilapidated, uncomfortable room, which is a disgrace to the district. Of the difficulties under which she labored, and of her success, we will let her speak for herself. "I am not a native of this State, and never having even visited a New Hampshire school, I ventured to fill a very important position. I had many misgivings in regard to my success, but succeeded beyond my expectations. The parents have worked with and for the teacher, and the scholars have been quiet, obedient, and respectful, and all aimed for improvement." We consider Miss Batchelder a worthy person, and give her full credit for an honest endeavor; but for some reason, diffidence perhaps, several of the classes appeared poorly at the final examination.

Winter Term taught by George F. White, of Manchester. Only one visit was made by the committee, to this school, and that was during the first week. We learn that the school was not satisfactory to all of the district, and a number removed their children from it. The deportment of the scholars is reported "exceedingly good, taking into consideration all circumstances." It was Mr. White's first attempt as a teacher, and perhaps the system of teaching, entered upon at first, was not adapted to this district. From careful observation we have received the impression that teachers educated in graded schools, are not as successful in our town schools, as those who receive most of their education in them, and are consequently better acquainted with their management.

DISTRICT NO. 8. TEBBETT'S HILL.

Summer Term taught by Emma F. Whittemore, of Manchester. Sickness prevented our visiting this school at the close. We formed a very high opinion of the teacher at our first and only visit to her school-room. A good disciplinarian, a thorough scholar, she seemed to have awakened in every scholar a desire to do well. The record of visitors shows that a commendable interest is felt in the school by the citizens of the district. Register imperfect; no remarks.

Winter Term taught by James R. Corliss, of Bow. The term was so short that but little was accomplished except a review of what had been studied during previous terms. It was evident, at the examination, that the teacher was thorough in illustration. Whispering and laughing were practiced by a few scholars with scarcely any restraint. We are unable to account for the want of pride so strikingly manifest in some pupils, in regard to a respectable appearance. The propriety of giving two exhibitions in a term of six weeks may reasonably be questioned.

DISTRICT NO. 9. CENTER, NORTH SIDE.

Summer Term taught by Mary E. Brown. Miss Brown's abilities as a teacher are well known. She labored in this school with her usual energy and perseverance. This is a large school made up of elements very dissimilar, and in its present state no teacher can do it full justice. Gross irregularity of attendance, and a great variety of text books are serious obstacles to its prosperity. The manners and habits of some of the pupils are not all that could be desired. The closing examination passed off pleasantly in the presence of a good number of spectators. Register imperfect; wages not given.

Winter Term taught by N. Amanda Wyman. Miss Wyman realized the responsibility of her position and labored to discharge every duty. In so large a school, none but those similarly situated can form a correct idea of the severity of the teacher's task. An unusual earnestness on the part of the scholars is necessary to produce the desired improvement. A few well chosen recitations and dialogues added to the interest of the examination.

DISTRICT NO. 10. PATTEE HILL.

Summer Term taught by Lizzie Sargent. Parents, scholars, and teacher, labored in harmony, and a successful term was the result. In many respects it was a model school. Twenty of the twenty-five pupils did not whisper during the term. What a credit to them and to the school! It shows what can be done where there is a disposition to make the necessary effort.

Winter Term taught by Calvin Martin, of Dunbarton. The scholars, as usual during a few terms past, manifested a deep interest in their studies, conducted with propriety, and passed a creditable examination. Four did not whisper during the term. Thirteen of the twenty-one scholars were not absent one half day. Another bright spot in the history of this school. The teacher remarked that in an experience of forty months, no term was as pleasant as this. With pleasure we present the statement to the public.

DISTRICT NO. 11. PARKER'S.

Summer Term taught by Mary A. Hadley. This is a very pleasant school and the citizens of the district may justly be proud of it. No school that we visited appeared better than this. Miss Hadley excels in practical instruction, and richly merits the reputation of a first class teacher. The closing examination showed the pleasing results of a successful term. Twelve of the fifteen pupils did not whisper.

Winter Term taught by Alvin Hadley. This term, though pleasant in many respects, was not free from all the trials and difficulties pertaining to school life. The scholars deserve much praise for the interest manifested in the school, their general deportment and attention to their studies; yet a few, owing to circumstances beyond the teacher's control, did not accomplish as much as is desirable. The competition awakened by giving "head marks" in spelling, made the exercise more interesting and beneficial to the pupils. Sixteen of the twenty-one scholars did not whisper during the term.

DISTRICT NO. 12. PAIGE'S.

Summer and Winter Terms taught by Mary C. Bailey, of Manchester. In our visits to this school there was not that application to study, promptness in recitation, and good order, manifested, which characterizes a successful term. Irregularity of attendance with the scholars, and want of energy on the part of the teacher, perhaps, produced this deplorable state. A new house is needed. It would be a step in the right direction, and give a new impulse to the school.

The Winter Term closed unexpectedly, and we were not notified to visit it. Register imperfect; wages not given.

DISTRICT NO. 13. VILLAGE, NORTH SIDE.

Summer Term taught by Philantha R. Whipple, of New Boston. The district was fortunate in securing the services of so thorough and efficient teacher. We noticed the pleasing evidence of zeal and energy combined in all her undertakings. Harmony of feeling existed, and the satisfactory performance of the varied features of the examination gave indications of a profitable term. Miss Whipple says: "All have seemed interested, any many have worked diligently, and been successful in sustaining a good report. The teacher feels that much credit is due the young ladies for their kindness to her, and zeal in studies pursued." Twenty-three did not whisper.

Winter Term taught by Sarah M. Boyd. Miss Boyd, by the interest manifested in the welfare of her pupils, won their good will, which is so essential to ensure success. The exercises were conducted with skill and energy, and the application to study, and attention in recitations were indeed commendable. Defining the principle words of the reading lessons was an important feature, which we would present for the consideration of other teachers and schools. Register imperfect; a number of important blanks are not filled.

DISTRICT NO. 14. PLUMER'S.

Winter Term taught by Nettie M. Hart. Miss Hart fully maintained her former reputation as a successful teacher. Possibly this school is more difficult than some to govern, but every obstacle was met with energy and decision, and the examination was interesting and satisfactory. We gladly credit the school with an interest in rhetorical exercises. Ten did not whisper. Register imperfect; average not given.

DISTRICT NO. 15. DOW'S.

Summer Term taught by Hannah P. Smith. The terms of school in this district have been very short and irregular; as a result we found a backward school. But the interest manifested gave promise of better things. A young, but not wholly inexperienced teacher seems to have met with encouraging success. The appearance of this school, at the close, was very pleasing and satisfactory to the committee. Register imperfect; imperfections too numerous to specify.

Winter Term taught by Mary A. Huntoon, of Salisbury. This school appeared well in many respects at the commencement, but failing to receive notice it was not visited at the close. A slight disturbance occurred during the term, arising partly from alleged misconduct on the part of a pupil, who in turn charged the teacher with neglect. We have reason to fear that this unhappy difficulty was brought on by extraneous influences. Register imperfect; no remarks, and the average is not given.
